Purpose and Prosperity

The Grow America Farm Corps program addresses local farm labor shortages by fostering dynamic collaboration among farmers, New Americans, veterans, government entities, nonprofits, community groups, and private sector partners.

Farmers with employment opportunities sign up to be matched with new Americans seeking agricultural training and mentorship. Farmers receive essential labor assistance while New Americans obtain access to housing, inclusive employment, community integration, and mentorship in agricultural skill development.

Our adaptable approach is sustainable, community-based solutioning, with a strong Vermont foundation and heartbeat. Together, we find purpose and prosperity.

New Americans are currently staffing vacancies in multiple on-site dairy operations, as well as dairy manufacturing and packing sites in Vermont.

Current Locations

We are based in Vermont and expanding to farms throughout the New England region.

Preserving Ag Heritage

476

476 — nearly half — of Vermont's dairy farms have closed during the last 11 years, according to the Vermont Agency for Agriculture, Foods and Markets.

Staffing shortages dramatically impact agricultural operations, which in turn affect related supply chains and even regional economies. Responsive support is critical. Grow America strives to increase workforce stability and sustain both Vermont's agricultural vitality and communities—improving quality of life for all.
